The main objective of the Fund is to generate to Unitholders stabilized cash distributions with growth potential, by acquiring good quality real estate assets at prime locations, capable of providing better yield at the end of their current leases. The Fund seeks to maximize the Fund's investment value by:

- (a) the reinvestment of the Retained Income in feasible real estate investment assets with a return of not less than 8%, without concentrating the assets in a certain sector or region, so that the Fund's sources of income are diversified. This shall be made after distributing not less than 90% of the Fund's annual net profits, excluding the capital gains resulting from selling the real estate assets to Unitholders;
- (b) the potential capital appreciation resulting from improved yields by acquiring new properties or obtaining financing;
- (c) the improvement of the performance of the properties by exploiting the unused parts thereof or reusing the property in line with market requirements by adopting strategies aimed at increasing demand on the property, such as (subdividing or merging areas, and targeting renowned reputable tenants).

The Fund also intends to increase value and returns to Unitholders by improving the net operating income through the partial reduction of expenses by taking advantage of increasing the Fund size in negotiating with the cost sources to reach less prices, and, accordingly, lower Fund expenses.

The Fund intends to adopt distinct selective criteria carefully reviewed and planned, which take into consideration the nature of the real estate sector, levels of supply and demand, geographic and political factors and periodic fluctuations of the various real estate categories. The Fund intends to invest in commercial, multi-use, hospitality, administrative and logistics properties and retail real estate assets, which are leased to companies or individuals or operated directly.

2. Investment Concentration Policies

The Fund will target to invest primarily in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia as well as some GCC states. Investment in these states is expected to generate attractive returns and increase the investment value. Those regions are characterized by favorable demographics and a strong growth of business activities, as well as a positive flow of investments, positive supply and demand dynamics, and a solid infrastructure. The Fund targets primarily the Saudi market. As for the GCC markets, the Fund will target investment in the UAE real estate market by not more than 25% of the Fund's total assets. As such, the Fund Manager aims at gaining exposure to a vital market providing attractive returns by investing in commercial, residential and office towers that are fully leased to well-known regional and international companies.

In Addition, the Fund may invest up to a maximum of 25% of its Total Asset Value in (real estate development activities (including renovation and re-development), provided the Fund does not invest in white lands. This includes entering into Murabaha transactions with local banks or investing in the shares of Shari'a compliant real estate companies or Shari'a complaint real estate investment traded funds (REITs) listed on Tadawul).

The following table shows the maximum limit of the various types of Fund investments

Type of Investment	Allocation Percentage
Structurally Developed Properties capable of generating periodic and rental income in Saudi Arabia	Not less than 75% of the Fund's total real estate asset value.
Real estate development activities Leasehold Saudi Riyal Murabaha transactions Shares of Shari'a compliant real estate companies listed on Tadawul Shari'a compliant real estate investment traded funds (REITs) listed on Tadawul Publicly and privately offered money market funds licensed by the CMA Islamic deposit transactions with local or GCC banks holding a credit rating of not less than (Baa3) by Moody's or an investment grade by Fitch and S&P of a minimum of BBB only Shari'a compliant investment funds listed on Tadawul, and Shares of Shari'a compliant real estate companies listed on Tadawul	Up to 25% of the Fund's Total Asset Value.
Investments outside Saudi Arabia	The maximum percentage of investing outside Saudi Arabia, specifically in the GCC, will be 25%.
Investment in white lands	The Fund will not invest in white lands.

3. Borrowing Powers

The Fund Manager may, on behalf of the Fund, obtain Shari'a compliant financing following obtaining the approval of the Fund Board and the Shari'a Committee, provided the percentage of the financing obtained does not exceed 50% of the Fund's Total Asset Value as per the latest audited financial statements. The actual percentage of financing depends upon (a) considerations related to the arrangement of the financing obtained, and (b) prevailing market conditions.

Prior to listing the Fund on the Saudi Stock Exchange (Tadawul), the Fund Manager will enter into negotiations with banks to obtain credit facilities in order to provide cash as necessary to complete the acquisitions of the assets.

4. Methods and Ways to Invest the Cash Available in the Fund

The Fund may invest the available cash amounts in Murabaha transactions and other short term Shari'a compliant investments, provided the percentage of these investments does not exceed 25% of the Fund's Total Asset Value as per the latest audited financial statements. Such investments may be made with the Fund Manager or any bank regulated by the Saudi Arabian Monetary Authority, or with publicly offered investment funds licensed by the CMA and managed by the Fund Manager or any other investment fund manager. Such funds shall include each of the money market funds, trading funds, income generating real estate funds and real estate investment traded funds (REITs).

5. Dividend Distribution Policy

The Fund Manager aims to distribute to investors - twice a year at the end of Q1 and Q3 after the end of the Gregorian year - annual cash dividends of not less than 90% of the Fund's annual net profits, excluding the profits resulting from the sale of the initial real estate assets, which are reinvested in additional assets. The Fund is expected to declare the dividends and their due and distribution dates within 40 Business Days after any relevant Valuation Day.

6. Active Management

The Fund relies on the Real Estate Investments Management Division of the Fund Manager and on external advisors to regularly assess the most attractive sectors in the real estate investment market. The Fund Manager will continuously follow up the patterns and cycles of the real estate investment market. The assets of the Fund will be managed by an experienced team of professionals specialized in real estate investments. The team will continuously monitor the patterns and cycles of the real estate investment market, as well as the market fundamentals and sector characteristics, to capitalize on the opportunities available in the real estate market and maintain the Fund's long-term objectives. Moreover, the Fund Manager intends to appoint experienced property managers to manage the Fund's properties. Such property managers may also be lessees of the properties owned by the Fund.

7. Investment Decision Making Process

In pursuing new opportunities in the local and GCC real estate market, the Fund Manager will adopt a sound investment process to identify opportunities and efficiently execute transactions in accordance with the detailed internal policy prepared by the Fund Manager's investment team. Among the various selective approaches adopted by the Fund Manager, the Fund Manager will consider each property independently and separately, taking into account the attractiveness of the property's location, competitive advantages, liquidity levels in the secondary market, vacancy ratios, macroeconomic trends and other factors, in order to reach a decision concerning investing in a certain property. The Fund Manager will also evaluate the Fund's added value upon acquiring any new properties. The Fund Manager may rely on third party advisory services for the purpose of reaching an investment decision.

Below are the steps for executing acquisitions:

- Valuate the property selected by the real estate funds management team, which is in line with the Fund's objectives.
- Appoint two independent valuers licensed by the Saudi Authority for Accredited Valuers (TAQEEM) to obtain a valuation of the property.
- Appoint a technical evaluator to carry out the technical due diligence.
- Obtain the approval of the Fund Board and the Shari'a Board on the property subject of the acquisition.
- Submit the offer to purchase to the owner after obtaining the approval of the Fund Board
- Disclose to the CMA and Unitholders in the event the underlying property to be acquired equals or exceeds 10% of the Fund's Total Asset Value as per the latest reviewed interim financial statements or audited annual financial statements, whichever is later.

- Obtain the approval of the CMA and Unitholders in the event the property is acquired by increasing the Fund's capital.
- Own the property in favour of the Fund and register its title in the name of the special purpose company established by the Custodian.

8. Disposal of the Properties and Exit Policy

The Fund's primary objective is to generate to Unitholders periodic income, which requires holding the ownership of attractive assets for a certain period of time. The Fund Manager will continually monitor the market to take advantage of any opportunities to exit from one or more of its investments, if this is deemed in the best interest of the Unitholders, so as to be able to source other investments with better returns. Exit rationale includes, without limitation, (a) the rebalance of the Fund's assets to include new attractive assets, (b) changes in the fundamentals of the existing real estate asset, or (c) negative outlooks and views on the real estate market and its sub-sectors which may affect the Fund's real estate assets.

The Fund intends to generally hold the ownership of the properties over the long term. However, the Fund Manager will regularly value every asset owned by the Fund and propose strategies in respect thereof, including the decisions to dispose of the property over the short and long term if such decisions are deemed to be in the best interest of the Fund and Unitholders.

The Fund Manager will obtain a valuation for any property proposed to be sold or disposed of by the Fund, by two independent valuers licensed by the Saudi Authority for Accredited Valuers (TAQEEM). The purchase price for any sale or disposition shall not be less than the lower of the two valuations.

9. Ownership Structure

The Fund has appointed the Custodian to take custody of the Fund's assets. The ownership of the assets will be registered in the name of one or more SPV(s) established by the Custodian in order to segregate the Fund's assets from the assets of the Custodian.

The Fund may obtain financing facilities from one or more financial institution(s). In this case, the assets of the Fund may be pledged to the financier in accordance with the terms and conditions of the financing documentation.

10. Compliance with Laws

The Fund and its investments shall at all times comply with the regulations and laws governing the ownership of property in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, including the Law of Real Estate Ownership and Investment by Non-Saudis.

H) Risks of Investing in the Fund

Investment in the Fund involves multiple risks, and is suitable only for investors who fully understand, and are capable of bearing, the risks of such an investment, particularly the risks of the real estate investment. Potential investors shall carefully evaluate the considerations set out below, among others, upon making their decision. There can be additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to the Fund Manager, or currently deemed by the Fund Manager as immaterial, while they may have an adverse impact on the Fund and its activities. There is no assurance that the Fund will be able to achieve its investment objective or that investors will receive a return on their capital (other than what is stated in this draft concerning the mandatory donation of the differences of distributions, if they drop below than targeted).

An investment in the Fund does not entail any guarantee that such investment will be profitable or that an investor will not incur any losses. As such, each prospective investor shall take into account each of the below mentioned risk factors prior to purchasing Units in the Fund. Each investor bears full responsibility for any financial loss resulting from an investment in the Fund, unless such loss is due to the fraud, gross negligence or misconduct of the Fund Manager, as per the Real Estate Investment Funds Regulations.

1. Main Risks of Investing in the Fund

Risks of Non-Assured Returns on Investment (other than what is stated in this draft concerning the mandatory donation of the differences of distributions, if they drop below than targeted)

(Other than what is stated in this draft concerning the Fund Manager's mandatory donation of the differences of distributions, if they drop below than targeted) There is no assurance that the Fund will succeed in generating returns to investors or that returns will be in line with the risks of investing in the Fund and the nature of transactions contained in these Terms and Conditions. The value of Units may decrease, and investors may lose part or all of their invested capital. All the figures and statistics shown in these Terms and Conditions are for the purpose of explanation only, and do not represent any profit projections. Actual returns which may differ from the statistics contained in these Terms and Conditions, may not be projected, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Limited Operating History

The Fund has no operating history based on which potential investors may evaluate the performance of the Fund and its track record of success. Although the Fund Manager has an extensive experience in managing real estate funds, the Fund Manager has limited experience in managing real estate investment traded funds, as their legislations have been only recently drafted in the Kingdom, and the nature of the Fund's future investments, as well as the nature of the risks associated therewith, may differ substantially from those investments and strategies undertaken historically by the Fund Manager. Past results achieved by the Fund Manager are not necessarily indicative of the future performance. Therefore, the novelty of the product shall be deemed a risk, as it is difficult to predict the extent of change in the value of Units or the proceeds that are supposed to be distributed, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Non-Compliance with Applicable Regulations

The Fund may cease to qualify as a real estate investment traded fund under the Real Estate Investment Traded Funds Instructions, which would have adverse consequences on the liquidity of trading their Units, and may in return adversely affect the value of their investment. Requirements for maintaining the Fund's status as a real estate investment traded fund, have not been tested. In addition, these requirements for maintaining the Fund's status as a real estate investment traded fund may be changed later. Potential investors should note that there is no guarantee that the Fund will, following its election to become a real estate investment traded fund, continue to be a real estate investment traded fund or continue to maintain such status (whether by reason of failure to satisfy regulatory requirements or otherwise). In the event the Fund fails to meet any of the regulatory requirements necessary to maintain its status, the CMA may suspend the trading of Units or cancel the Fund's listing. The inability to list the Fund on the Saudi Stock Exchange (Tadawul) could adversely impact the marketability, liquidity and value of the Units, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Non-Availability of Market Liquidity

The Fund intends to apply for admission of the Units to trading on the Saudi Stock Exchange (Tadawul). Admission should not be taken as implying that there will be a liquid market for the Units or that it will develop or, if it does develop, that it will be maintained indefinitely following admission. If a liquid trading market is not developed or maintained, the liquidity and trading prices of the Units could be adversely affected. In addition, if such a market does not develop, relatively small transactions or intended transactions in respect of the Units may have a significant negative impact on the market value of the Units, whilst actual transactions or intended transactions in respect of a significant number of Units may be difficult to be executed at a stable price. The limited number of Units and/or Unitholders may indicate that there is a limited liquidity in such Units, which may adversely affect the following: (i) an investor's ability to realize returns on part or all of its investment, (ii) the price at which such investor can realize such returns and/or (iii) the price at which the Units are traded in the secondary market. Moreover, a substantial proportion of the Units may be issued to a limited number of investors, which could adversely affect the development of an active liquid market for the Units. In addition, although the Units will be tradable, the liquidity of the market in respect of the tradable units of real estate investment traded funds may be less than that of the market of the shares of listed companies, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Substantial Sales of Units

Sales by the Unitholders of a substantial number of Units may significantly reduce the Unit's trading price. Any rumors on the performance of the Fund may drive Unitholders to sell their Units, thus adversely affecting the Unit price.

Risks of Price Changes

There are several factors that may adversely affect the market price of the Units, including the general movement in the local and global capital markets and the real estate markets, prevailing and anticipated economic conditions, interest rates, financing costs, investor sentiment and general economic conditions. The market for the Units may fluctuate, and a lack of liquidity can have an adverse effect on the market value of the Units. Accordingly, the purchase of such Units is only suitable for investors who can bear the risks associated with such investments, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Changes in Interest Rates and General Economic Conditions

Changes in economic conditions, including interest rates, inflation rates, employment conditions, competition, technological developments, political and diplomatic events and tax laws, can materially and adversely affect the activities and prospects of the Fund. In particular, any increase in the interest rates may cause investors to demand higher returns to compensate for the increase in the cost of money and the alternative opportunity cost. As a result, the attractiveness of the Units as an investment opportunity may be reduced and subsequently their demand decreases, which may negatively affect the market price of the Units. Whereas the Fund may seek financing, any increase in the interest rates in debt markets may impact the Fund's financing terms. Changes in interest rates may also impact valuations in the real estate sector generally, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Trading at a Price Lower than the Market Value

The Units may be traded at a price lower than the Initial Offering Price upon subscription, and Unitholders may not retrieve the full value of their investment. The Units may be traded at a discount for a variety of reasons, including the adverse market conditions, weak projections by investors on the feasibility of the Fund's strategy and investment policy, and any increase in the supply of Units vs demand, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Fluctuation in Distributions

Although the Fund is required under the Real Estate Investment Traded Funds Instructions to distribute annually at least 90% of its net income to Unitholders, with the exception of the capital gains resulting from the sale of the assets, there are no guarantees regarding the amounts of any future distributions (other than what is stated in this draft concerning the mandatory donation of the differences of distributions, if they drop below than targeted). The Fund may be unable to make any distribution due to unforeseeable events resulting in an increase in costs (including capital expenditures in the case of large-scale urgent costly renovation works) or a decrease in revenues (such as in the case of decreased rental revenue collection levels). The Fund's inability to make annual distributions to Unitholders may expose the Fund to certain liabilities that would further weaken its financial performance. The Fund may also be prevented from making any distributions by its financiers, pursuant to the relevant financing documentation, who may in certain circumstances (for example following the occurrence of a default under the financing documentation) have the right to take control of the cash flows of the Fund and use those cash flows to pay down the amounts outstanding under the financing documentation. Any interruption or decrease in the amounts of distributions to Unitholders, may cause the value and trading price of the Fund Units to fall, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Increase in the Ratio of Management Fees to Fund Income

The Fund pays 0.35% of its Net Asset Value as Management Fees, while the Fund's rental income is fixed for a long period of time. The value of the Fund's assets is expected to change from time to time, and may therefore result in a decrease or increase in the Management Fees paid to the Fund Manager. In the event of an increase, the Management Fees will increase as a percentage of the annual fixed income, which may adversely affect the Fund Units' periodic returns.

Risks of Substantial Sales of Units

Subsequent sales by the Unitholders of a substantial number of Units may significantly reduce the Unit's market price. Any sales of a substantial number of Units in the public market, or the perception that such sales will occur, could adversely and significantly affect the value and trading price of the Units, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Reflection of Underlying Value

The traded market price of the Units may not reflect the value of the initial investments of the Fund. Stock exchanges may experience extreme price and volume volatility from time to time, and this, in addition to economic, political and other conditions, may adversely affect the value and trading price of the Units. As the Fund is closed ended public real estate investment traded fund, the price of the Unit may be influenced by a number of factors, many of which are beyond the Fund's control, while some are related to the Fund and its operations. Some of these factors affect investment in real estate property or equity markets in general, which may adversely affect the Unit trading price or the return on investment.

Risks of Valuation of Fund NAV

The Fund's Net Asset Value shall be determined at least once every six months, however, the value of the initial investments of the Fund may change in the time period falling between valuations. Accordingly, the market price of the Units may be determined based on historical information which may not reflect the current value of the initial investments of the Fund. Moreover, all the Fund Manager's due and payable fees are not adjusted until the next valuation. As such, the Unitholder will not be aware of the Fund's updated asset value during such period, and may dispose of the Units of the Fund in a way that may negatively affect its returns and the value of its investment.

Risks of Limitations on Raising Funds for Additional Acquisitions

Distribution requirements and financing restrictions under the Real Estate Investment Traded Funds Instructions may limit the Fund's flexibility and ability to achieve growth through acquisitions. The Fund intends to distribute to Unitholders at least 90% of its net profits, with the exception of any profits resulting from the sale of the initial real estate assets and other investments, which may be reinvested in additional assets or in the maintenance and renovation of the Fund's existing assets. Furthermore, in order to maintain the Fund's status as a real estate investment traded fund, the Fund's leverage must not exceed 50% of the Total Asset Value of the Fund. As a result, the Fund has a limited ability to make improvements to its property or achieve growth through the acquisition of additional assets, which may thus affect the profitability of the Fund. It should be noted that the Fund may increase its capital by offering a rights issue in accordance with the Regulations of the CMA and the relevant Saudi Arabian Companies Law.

Adherence to Shari'a Restrictions

The Fund's investments must be made in accordance with the Shari'a Guidelines as specified by the Shari'a Board. These Guidelines apply to the structure of the investments and, to a certain extent, to the activities of the Fund and the diversification of its investments. In order to comply with such Guidelines, the Fund may be forced to divest an investment or part thereof, or give up part of its income, if the investment or the structure of that investment violates the Shari'a Guidelines. Additionally, in complying with the Shari'a Guidelines, the Fund may lose investment opportunities, if a proposed investment is ultimately determined by the Shari'a Board not to adhere to the Shari'a Guidelines, and thus cannot be considered by the Fund. These factors may, under certain circumstances, have an adverse effect on the financial performance of the Fund or its investments, as compared to the results that might be obtained in the absence of the Fund's investment Shari'ah Guidelines.

Risks of Incorrect Forecasts and Changes in Market Conditions

The future performance of the Fund largely depends on the changes in the supply and demand levels in the relevant real estate sector, which may be affected by regional and local economic and political conditions, increased competition resulting in a decline in the value of the real estate property and a potential limited availability of housing loans or an increase in mortgage rates, as well as changes in the supply and demand levels. As such, the incorrect forecasts used by the Fund Manager to make investment decisions may have an adverse impact on the Fund.

Non-Participation in Management

Except as mentioned in these Terms and Conditions, investors shall have no right or power to participate in the management of the Fund or to influence any of the Fund's investment decisions. All management responsibilities shall be entrusted to the Fund Manager, as these decisions affect the Fund's activities and accordingly the Unitholders.

Dependence on Key Personnel

The Fund's success principally depends on the success of its management team. The loss of the services of any of the members of the Fund's management team in general (whether such loss is through resignation or otherwise), or the inability to attract and retain additional personnel, could affect the Fund's business and prospects. The lack of a successful team to manage the Fund may negatively affect the ability to develop the Fund's properties and assets and the ability to negotiate in the best interest of the Fund, which may affect the Fund's returns and the value of its investment Units.

Risks of the Nature of Investment

Investment in the Fund requires a commitment as explained in these Terms and Conditions, with no guarantees in respect of generating returns on the invested capital. There will be no assurance that the Fund will be able to generate positive returns on its investments on time or at any time (other than what is stated in this draft concerning the mandatory donation of the differences of distributions, if they drop below than targeted). There could be no possibility to sell its assets or dispose of them, and in case it is decided to dispose of them by sale, there could be no possibility to sell them at a price that is believed by the Fund Manager to represent their fair value, or to sell them within the timeframe required by the Fund.

Based on the foregoing, the Fund may not be able at all to generate any return on its assets.

Risks of Potential Conflict of Interest

The Fund may experience different events of conflict of interest, since the Fund Manager and its subsidiaries and their respective directors, managers and employees, may be participating in real estate activities and other commercial activities, whether directly or indirectly. In this respect, the Fund Manager may from time to time deal with persons, companies, institutions or firms which are affiliated with the Fund Manager's subsidiaries to facilitate investment opportunities. Entities to which the Fund Board has entrusted certain responsibilities (including the Fund Manager) are not required to dedicate all their resources to the Fund. In case any of these entities dedicated its responsibilities or resources to other third parties, this might restrict its ability to dedicate its resources and responsibilities to the Fund, which may affect the Fund's ability to achieve its objectives in terms of increasing revenues and accomplish a better market value in respect of its Units.

Risks of Uneven Flow of Information

The Fund will issue 28.5% of its Units to the property owners against their in-kind contributions to the Fund's capital. This group also represents the true owners of the seller companies and property management companies, and as such risks arise in relation to the flow of material information to such group of property owners or property managers, of which the Fund Manager may not be aware or may not realize that they are material. In addition, they may be able to interpret information on time, while other investors may not have such ability.

Risks of Investing outside the Kingdom

International investment – outside the Kingdom – involves many risks, including the risks of the currency exchange rate, political and economic instability, higher costs to the investor and information security. The Fund Manager will seek to enter into investments with regulatory and supervisory requirements that are at least similar to those applied in the Kingdom. However, in the event of occurrence of any of the foregoing, the Fund's profits and/or valuation of its assets may be affected, and this may adversely affect the price of its Units.

Currency Exchange Rate Risks

The Fund's functional currency is the Saudi Riyal. However, the Fund may acquire real estate property, enter into investments or pay any fees or costs in a currency other than the Saudi Riyal. Therefore, any change in the exchange rates of such currencies may increase the costs borne by the Fund and as such adversely affect the prices of the Fund's Units. Moreover, Unitholders with a functional currency other than the Saudi Riyal, are exposed to exchange rate fluctuations.

Technology Risks

The Fund Manager relies on using technology in the management of the Fund. However, its information systems may be exposed to hacking, virus attacks or partial or total breakdown, thus limiting the ability of the Fund Manager to effectively manage the Fund's investments, which may adversely affect the Fund's performance, and accordingly the Fund Unitholders.

Risks of Insolvency of the Fund Manager

Whereas the Fund Manager has committed itself out of its own free will, in the event the Fund's return drops below 5%, to donate not more than 2% of the return of MEFIC's own assets to the Unitholders investing in the Offering, in respect of the Units unsold since the commencement of the Offering. As such, in the event the Fund Manager goes insolvent, it will not be able to make this mandatory donation of the differences of the return if it drops beyond what is targeted.

This includes the Fund Manager's inability to fulfil its obligations for one or more years, as well as the risks of declaring the Fund Manager bankrupt.

Moreover, there are risks of early termination of the Fund, and as such the investors may not enjoy the advantage of receiving the donation of the differences of the return.

2. Factors of Risks Related to Fund Assets

Risks of Acquisition of Initial Real Estate Assets

The Fund targets to complete acquisition of the Initial Real Estate Assets within 60 Business Days from the Closing Date. Although the purchase agreements are legally binding, if either party to the purchase agreements fails to perform its obligations thereby, the acquisition process may not occur within 60 days from the Closing Date or may not occur at all. In such case, the Fund will need to identify and complete acquisitions of other assets before it could start making dividends to Unitholders. While the Fund Manager expects that the Fund will continue to provide the target returns to investors over the long term, the expected periodic returns to investors may decrease due to the lack of income generating assets at the time.

Risks of Real Estate Investments

Investing in Fund Units is exposed to certain risks related to the ownership of the real estate assets and the real estate sector in general. The value of the Fund's investments may be adversely affected by a number of factors, including a decline in the value of the real estate property, inability to liquidate the investment, risks related to domestic economic conditions, natural disasters, environmental liability, higher financing costs, financial positions of the lessees, increase of taxation imposed on the real estate property, changes in the zoning laws and increased competition.

Risks of Availability of Appropriate Investments

Some of the investments of the Fund, as at the date of issue hereof, are selected by the Fund Manager, and as such the Unitholders will not have an opportunity to evaluate the economic, financial or other factors related to future investments. There can be no assurance that the Fund Manager will be able, upon acquisition of the Initial Real Estate Assets, to identify investments that meet the Fund's investment objectives, particularly in the current market environment. Identifying and structuring the suitable investments for the Fund is somehow complicated and involves a high degree of uncertainty. The inability of the Fund, through the Fund Manager, to identify the suitable investments may adversely affect the ability to achieve the desired growth in the market value of the Units.

Risks of Third Party Default in Respect of the Initial Real Estate Assets

The Initial Real Estate Assets are leased to several lessees. As such, the Fund will have material exposure to risks in the event the lessee fails to fulfil its obligations. If the lessee is in default of settlement of its due and payable payments in respect of one or more properties that comprise the Initial Real Estate Assets, this may limit the Fund Manager's ability to re-lease the property or lease it under satisfactory lease terms, which would reduce the rental revenues generated from the property. Furthermore, the Fund may be obliged to carry out significant renovation works in respect of the properties for the purpose of attracting future new tenants on the best possible terms, which may temporarily affect the returns distributed to Unitholders.

Risks of Counterparty Default and Credit Risks

The Fund may be exposed to credit risks related to the parties with whom the Fund conducts business, and may also bear the risk of settlement of the default. The Fund may, in certain circumstances, also be subject to the risks of default of a counterparty, including the landowners, property managers, lending banks, and/or contractors. Default by a third party counterparty in the payment of any contractual dues to the Fund could reduce the income of the Fund, and ultimately affect the returns to Unitholders.

Risks of Unspecified Use of Returns

As set out as at the date of issue of these Terms and Conditions, and with the exception of the Initial Real Estate Assets, the investments of the Fund which are intended to be made after the Listing Date have not been yet selected by the Fund Manager. Investors in the Fund will not have any opportunity to evaluate the relevant economic, financial and other information related to the investments.

Risks of Fluctuations in the Value of the Real Estate Property and Real Estate Risks

Investments will be subject to risks related to the ownership, leasing, operational development, and/or re-development of the real estate properties. These risks include, without limitation, those associated with the general local economic environment, domestic real estate conditions, changes in the supply and demand levels in respect of the real estate properties, energy supply shortages, various uninsured or uninsurable risks, natural disasters, government regulations and resolutions (including, without limitation, rent control), changes in real estate property taxes, changes in return rates and availability of housing loans which may render the sale or refinancing of the properties difficult or impracticable, in addition to the environmental liabilities, contingent liabilities related to the disposition of assets, wars and other factors which are beyond the control of the Fund Manager.

Whereas the real estate market has historically experienced significant fluctuations, there is a possibility that the Fund will acquire properties during the period of recovery of the real estate market, where the risk is alleviated here, before the occurrence of any subsequent deterioration which could affect the market value of the Fund's investments. There is no assurance that there will be a ready market for the resale of the investments because the investments will generally not be liquid.

In addition, the adverse changes in the operation of any properties or in the financial position of any lessee, could have an adverse effect on the rental payments received by the Fund and, accordingly, on the Fund's ability to make dividend distributions to investors. A lessee may experience from time to time a downturn in its business, which may weaken its financial position and result in its failure to settle the rental payments when they become due. At any time, a lessee may seek the protection of the applicable bankruptcy or insolvency laws, which could result in the rejection or termination of the lease contract or in other adverse consequences, and thereby cause a reduction in the distributable cash flow of the Fund. No assurance can be given that the lessees will not file for bankruptcy protection in the future or, if they do, that their leases will continue to be valid.

Risks of Concentration on the Real Estate Sector

The Fund may invest in assets which are concentrated in one particular sector, such as the residential, commercial, office and/or warehousing real estate sectors. If the Fund concentrates its investments in one sector, this may expose the Fund to the risk of economic downturns to a greater extent than if the Fund's investment assets also include several assets in other sectors. As a result, such downturns could have a material adverse effect on the Fund's financial position, results of operations, cash flows, and ability to make dividend distributions to investors.

Risks of Geography Concentration

Given that the Fund concentrates its investments in limited geographic locations, this could expose the Fund to risks of economic downturns to a greater extent than if the Fund includes properties distributed across diversified geographic locations. As a result, any economic downturn in the cities of Riyadh and Jeddah or any other region in which the Fund invests, could have a material adverse effect on the Fund's financial position, results of operations, cash flows, and ability to make distributions to investors.

Risks of Property Expropriation

Government authorities in the Kingdom are entitled to expropriate any property if deemed in the public interest (for example without limitation, the construction of highways and public facilities). In practice, the purchase price of a property is usually equal to the market value. In case of expropriation, the property will be compulsorily acquired after a period of notification that is not specified by law, given that its adoption shall be made pursuant to a specific law. Although compensation may be paid, there is a risk that the level of compensation would not be sufficient in comparison to the size of the investment, the loss of profit, or the increase in the value of the investment. If the risk of expropriation materializes, the value of distributions to Unitholders, as well as the value and trading price of the Units, may fall, and Unitholders may lose all or part of the invested capital.

Risks of the Commercial Real Estate Market

The Fund may acquire only commercial real estate assets, and if the Fund is dependent on the income streams derived from them, the Fund may become exposed to any downturn occurring in such market. The commercial real estate market is cyclical in nature and is affected by the economic condition in general. Deteriorating economic conditions adversely affect the value and liquidity of the commercial real estate assets. In addition, the negative economic conditions have had, and may continue to have, a material adverse effect on the level, and effective collection, of the rental revenues and the ability of the lessees to make payments which ultimately flow to the Fund. Any decline in the performance of the commercial real estate markets could have a negative impact on the rental levels and returns and the number of unexploited properties, and could as a result have a material adverse effect on the Fund's operations and financial position.

Risks of the Residential Real Estate Market

The Fund may invest in the residential real estate sector. The performance of investments in the residential real estate sector depends heavily on the changes in the supply and demand levels, which are greatly affected by the economic, political, security, regional and local factors, including an increase in the level of competition posed by the other residential properties. The Fund's ability to benefit from a rental income and to maintain the value of the property highly depends on the ability of the Fund's property to compete with other similar properties. If other similar properties are able to attract lessees better than those of the Fund's properties, then this could result in a decrease in the Fund's rental income due to the low demand on the properties of the Fund. The decrease in the net rental income may reduce the value of distributions to Unitholders, and may cause the value and price of the Units to fall.

Risks of Dependence on Rental Revenues

The Fund may acquire investments based on the values derived from the revenues which are expected to be received from the lessees. There can be no assurance that the vacant spaces will be leased or expiring leases will be renewed, or that there will be a rent escalation over time. If a lessee experiences a financial distress, then it may be unable to make timely rental payments or renew its lease contract. Some lessees may occupy significant portions of the relevant investments and, thus, as long as the Fund's investments are concentrated in those assets, the Fund's financial position, results of operations, cash flows, and ability to make dividend distributions to investors could be negatively and substantially affected by any adverse conditions impacting those master lessees.

Risks of Initial Assets Liquidity

Real estate assets are relatively illiquid and, as such, it may be difficult or impossible for the Fund to sell a real estate asset at the desired price at any particular time. The Fund's assets consist of real estate assets. It may be difficult for the Fund to sell its real estate assets (particularly at times of market downturn, and specifically those assets that are classified as large real estate assets), and the proposed price may be subject to a large discount, especially if the Fund is forced to dispose of any of its assets during a short period of time. This may reduce the value of the Units and adversely impact the performance of the Fund.

Risks of Real Estate Development

Taking into consideration that the real estate development projects will not constitute a large percentage of the Fund's assets, however, the real estate development sector in Saudi Arabia faces several risks. The risks of participating in the construction and marketing of a new real estate development project include, without limitation, the following: (i) delays in timely completion of works; (ii) cost overruns; (iii) the inability to generate lease contracts to forecast levels; and (iv) force majeure resulting from factors beyond the Fund's control, which are specific to the contracting industry (including any adverse weather and environmental conditions impeding the completion of the development and construction works and the lack of building materials in the market), which would hinder the completion of the development projects. The commencement of a new project also involves other risks, such as obtaining the governmental approvals and permits required for the subdivision of lands and occupancy, as well as other required governmental approvals and permits, and the real estate development costs related to projects that are not pursued to completion. The successful completion of such projects will have a direct significant impact on the value of the Units, and any failure to complete a project could reduce distributions to investors and the Net Asset Value of the Fund.

Leverage Risks

The assets of the Fund may be leveraged, which may adversely affect the income earned by the Fund or may result in losing the principal and, accordingly, the market value of the Units. Increases and decreases in the value of the Fund's real estate assets are magnified when the Fund uses leverage. For example, leverage may cause greater swings in the Fund's Net Asset Value or cause the Fund to lose more than it has invested. The use of leverage creates an opportunity for increased revenues, but at the same time involves a degree of financial risk and may expose the Fund and its investments to other factors, such as increased costs of leverage and economic downturns. Moreover, the assets of the Fund may be pledged to a financier for the sole benefit of the Fund, and such financier may claim the assets upon any event of default (as specified in the financing documentation) by the SPV, the Fund Manager or the Fund itself.

Risks of Certain Dispositions

In connection with the disposition of the Fund's investments, the Fund may be required to make declarations about the business and financial affairs of the investment, typical of those made in connection with the sale of any real estate property, and may also be required to indemnify the purchasers of such investments to the extent that any such declarations are inaccurate. These arrangements may result in contingent liabilities, and the returns to Unitholders may decrease or may be asked to be ultimately funded by the Fund. In addition, the documents governing the Fund stipulates that the Fund will indemnify the Fund Manager and its affiliates, including its officers, directors, partners, employees, shareholders, members and other agents, for certain claims, losses, damages and expenses arising out of its activities on behalf of the Fund. Such indemnification obligations could materially impact the returns to investors.

Risks of Inability to Exit the Fund's Investments under Favorable Terms

The Fund will exit the properties and its other assets at the time the Fund Manager believes is appropriate to sell. The Fund's ability to dispose of the properties based on favorable terms depends on factors beyond its control, including the competition from other sellers and the availability of financing solutions which attract potential buyers. If the Fund is unable to dispose of its assets based on the terms it prefers or at the time when the Fund Manager disposes of the assets, then its financial position, results of operations, cash flows and ability to distribute dividends to Unitholders could be adversely affected.

Risks of Inability of Lessees to fulfill their Lease Obligations

The Fund's results may be adversely affected, if a significant number of the lessees were unable to meet their lease obligations. In addition, if a lessee seeks the protection of the bankruptcy, insolvency or any similar laws, then it may terminate its respective lease contract, which would result in a reduction of the cash flow to the Fund. In the event of a significant number of lease defaults or lessees' bankruptcies, the Fund's cash flow and ability to make distributions to Unitholders would be adversely affected.

Risks of Possible Inability to Renew Leases or Re-lease the Leased Space Upon Expiration of the Lease Term

The Fund will derive most of its income from the rents paid by the lessees of the properties. Accordingly, the Fund's financial position, results of operations, cash flows and ability to distribute dividends to investors could be adversely affected, if the Fund is unable to promptly re-lease the properties or renew the lease contracts, or if the rental value upon renewal or re-lease is significantly lower than expected. In the event a lessee faces a downturn in its business or another kind of financial distress, it may become unable to pay the rental value on time or even renew its lease contract. Furthermore, the Fund's ability to lease the leasable space and the rental value received by it, are impacted not only by tenant demand, but also by the number of other properties competing with the Fund's properties to attract lessees.

Risks of Enforceability of FRI Leases

Some of the Initial Real Estate Assets have been leased under lease agreements broadly equivalent to what is known as "FRI" (full repairing and insuring) leases, whereby the lessee bears all the costs of maintenance, in addition to the services and insurance and payment of taxes and fees directly attributable to the relevant property.

Although the contracts have been approved by the Shari'a Board of the Fund, however, this does not provide a guarantee that the competent courts in the Kingdom will decide that the provisions of the leases and other related contracts are compliant with Shari'a, and are therefore enforceable in the Kingdom as drafted, particularly in respect of the provisions which give the lessee the responsibility to carry out construction repairs and to pay taxes and fees in relation to the Initial Real Estate Assets. In the event the competent courts decide that this arrangement is not Shari'a compliant, then the expenses payable by the Fund may increase significantly, and that may have a substantial negative impact on the Fund and its financial position and may reduce the distributions to Unitholders, and thus cause the value of the Units to fall.

Risks of the Hospitality Sector

The performance of the Fund will be influenced by factors which affect the hospitality sector in general, where it is possible to acquire hotels to be part of the Fund's real estate assets. These factors may include demand-side factors, such as any economic downturn, any outbreak of diseases and epidemics, the quarantine restrictions, the public health related restrictions, any laws or regulations (including those related to taxes and fees), the disruption of local, national or international transportation services, restrictions, prohibitions or any other similar case, or supply-side factors, such as an oversupply of hotels, either generally or in a particular sector, location or category. The hospitality sector is cyclical. Macroeconomics and other factors may have a negative impact on activities and the personal discretionary spending, leading to low occupancy levels and room rates and affecting the overall value of the real estate property in the hospitality sector. Consequently, the Fund may need to exit the assets for an amount below the acquisition cost, resulting in a capital loss, and thus may be unable to achieve the target returns.

Risks of the Commercial Real Estate Market

The Fund may acquire only commercial real estate assets, and if the Fund is dependent on the income streams derived from them, the Fund may become exposed to any downturn occurring in such market. The commercial real estate market is cyclical in nature and is affected by the economic condition in general. Adverse economic conditions affect the value and liquidity of the commercial real estate assets. In addition, any decline in the performance of the commercial real estate markets could have a negative impact on the rental levels and returns and the number of vacant properties, and could as a result have a material adverse effect on the Fund's operations and financial position.

Risks of Seasonality and Other Risks Related to the Hospitality Sector

The seasonality of the hospitality sector could generally have a material adverse effect on the Initial Real Estate Assets and any properties to be acquired in the future and used in the hospitality field. The hospitality sector is seasonal in nature, and achieves the highest levels of occupancy generally during leaves and holidays. This seasonality is expected to cause periodic fluctuations in room revenues and rates, occupancy levels and operating expenses. The Fund can give no assurances that the cash flows will be sufficient to offset any shortfalls that may occur as a result of these fluctuations. Consequently, the volatility in the financial performance resulting from the seasonality of the hospitality sector could have a material adverse effect on the Fund's financial position, cash flows and results of operations and, accordingly, on the cash dividend distributions and value of Units. Furthermore, while the Kingdom and the Saudi Commission for Tourism & National Heritage are presently expending enormous efforts to encourage tourism, the negative change in the issuance of work and tourist visas could affect the tourism market in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, including the investments of the Fund.

Risks of Uninsured Losses

The Fund will maintain a commercial liability insurance, a property insurance and other types of insurance policies, providing coverage for all the properties owned and managed by the Fund, in types and amounts that are believed to be sufficient and appropriate given the relative risks applicable to the property, and with a suitable cost of coverage, while adopting the good industry practices. Certain losses, such as those resulting from any acts of terrorism, windstorms, floods or seismic activity, may be insured against, subject to certain restrictions, including the restrictions of the insurance policies. Therefore, the Fund may incur material losses in excess of the insurance proceeds, and may become unable to continue to obtain insurance coverage at commercially reasonable rates. If the Fund experiences a loss that is uninsured or that exceeds its coverage limits with respect to the ownership of one or more of the properties, then the Fund could lose the capital invested in the damaged properties, as well as the anticipated future revenues from those properties. Indeed, any such loss is likely to adversely affect the Fund's financial position, results of operations, cash flows and ability to make cash distributions to Unitholders.

Risks of Property Valuation

For the purpose of valuing a certain property included in the Fund's investment portfolio, the Fund Manager will carry out internal valuations in several events concerning the Fund, in addition to the valuation prepared by the two independent valuers. The valuations performed by the Fund Manager will only be for the purpose of assessing the worthiness of a certain property, and are not a precise measurement of the value that may be obtained upon selling that property. Final verification of the market value of the property depends to a great extent on the negotiations between the seller and the buyer, which could be affected by the economic and other conditions falling beyond the control of the Fund and the Fund Manager, including, without limitation, the market conditions in general. If the Fund decides to liquidate its assets, the realized value may be more or less than the estimated valuation of such assets. During the periods of economic volatilities, in which there is a greater uncertainty as to the estimates of the value and fewer comparable transactions against which the value can be measured, the difference between the estimated value of a certain real estate asset and the final market value of that asset, increases. Furthermore, the relative uncertainty around the cash flows in a distressed market can adversely affect the accuracy of estimates of the property's value, and accordingly on the negotiations between the seller and the buyer and the sale price, and hence the returns to Unitholders.

Risks of Investing in Murabaha Funds, Listed Equities and Other Real Estate Investment Funds

The Fund may invest in SAR Murabaha transactions with local Saudi banks or in the equities of listed Shari'a compliant real estate companies or other Shari'a compliant real estate investment funds. The value of these types of investments may fall, as they are not bank deposits. In addition, there are third party default risks associated with the Murabaha transactions arising from trading activities involving dealing in illiquid financial instruments, the clearance and payments of which are not made with a regulated clearing house or a stock exchange, which may negatively affect cash distributions and the market value of Units.

Risks of Impacts of Government Policies on the Saudi Real Estate Market

The government has recently implemented a tax on the white lands. The tax, known as the “white land tax” provides an incentive to other developers to develop the undeveloped plots of land, but may also result in increased competition in the real estate market. Any future reduction of subsidies on electricity and water in the Kingdom, changes in the expat levies and taxes on expat remittances and the introduction of any new levies on expats and their dependents, may decrease the disposable income and reduce demand on the Fund’s properties. Moreover, any increases in the rental cap or value by the government may have an adverse impact on the revenues of the properties and, accordingly, on cash distributions and the market value of the Fund’s Units.

Risks of Building Cost Overruns

The Fund Manager may develop certain assets by taking advantage of certain sites unused therein and constructing, adding or developing buildings. Thus, the costs of construction of a real estate project may exceed the specified expectations for various reasons, including, without limitation, the delays caused by industrial disputes, disputes with subcontractors, increased costs of building materials, equipment and labor, bad weather conditions and unforeseen problems and conditions. If possible, the problem of cost overruns will be mitigated by entering the contractors into building contracts with scheduled timeframes for fixed lump sums, provided that such contracts include appropriate provisions in respect of emergencies. Nevertheless, there is no guarantee that these mitigation measures to be taken will be successful in eliminating the risk of incurring huge cost overruns, which may cause losses on investments. In such events, the dependence on contractors may be limited, and any increase in the costs of construction may reduce the Fund’s net income, and hence the percentages of cash distributions available to Unitholders.

Infrastructure Risks

In respect of the properties under development, the Fund will rely on the government and the municipality concerned to provide the necessary infrastructure for the development jobsite, including water, sewerage, electricity and roads. In the event the government and the municipality concerned are unable to complete the infrastructure projects on time or as currently expected, this may undermine the ability of the Fund to complete or operate the properties and adversely affect the performance of the Fund due to the delay in operating the property as planned, and thus resulting in a decrease in the levels of distributions to Unitholders.

Risks of Action Taken by Competitors

The Fund competes with other real estate property owners, operators and developers in Saudi Arabia, some of whom may own properties similar to the properties owned by the Fund within the same area in which the properties are located. If the Fund’s competitors rent residential or commercial places similar to the properties owned by the Fund, or sell assets similar to those owned by the Fund for a value equivalent to, or lower than, the Fund’s valuation of the comparable assets, the Fund may not succeed in renting the commercial and residential space at suitable prices or under appropriate terms, or may not succeed in renting or selling them at all. As a result, the Fund’s costs will increase due to incurring additional expenses to protect and retain the property, and the Fund will not benefit from the loss of income in respect of the property, and hence the levels of distributions to Unitholders will decrease.

The commencement of a new project also involves other risks, such as obtaining the governmental approvals and permits required for the subdivision of lands and occupancy, as well as other required governmental approvals and permits, and the real estate development costs related to projects that are not pursued to completion. The successful completion of such projects will have a direct significant impact on the value of the Units, and any failure to complete a project could affect distributions to investors and the Net Asset Value of the Fund.

Risks of Lack of a Construction Completion Certificate

There are certain assets which do not have a construction completion certificate, such as the properties located in Makkah or the properties which are still in the final stages of development. The Fund Manager acknowledges that it is liable for any damages resulting from the lack of a construction completion certificate.

Risks of Ministry of Labor Recent Resolutions

The Ministry of Labor recently issued resolutions to Saudize many segments of the retail sector. This may adversely affect the performance of certain properties as a result of the closure of some shops which rely totally on expat labor. Therefore, these resolutions may adversely affect the occupancy rates of the leasable areas of properties in these segments, which may in turn adversely affect distributions to investors and the Fund's NAV.

3. Other Risk Factors:

Risks of Legal Status

The Fund is a contractual arrangement between the Unitholders and the Fund Manager. Such contractual arrangement is governed and supervised by the CMA. The Fund does not have its own legal personality, as such the Fund may not be supported by the Saudi official legislators or Saudi courts due to the uncertainty of the Fund's legal entity, which may expose the Fund to losses directly reflecting on the market price of the Fund's Units.

Legal, Regulatory and Tax Risks

The information contained in these Terms and Conditions is based on the existing laws as at the date of issue hereof. Legal, tax, zakat and regulatory or other changes may occur in the Kingdom during the Fund Term, which could have an adverse effect on the Fund, its investments or the Unitholders. Currently, there are no taxes imposed on the investment funds in Saudi Arabia. Nevertheless, there is no guarantee that the current tax regulations in effect in the Kingdom will not change. Investment in the Fund involves risks of imposing the Value Added Tax, which may directly or indirectly affect the Fund's returns by reducing the cash available for the Fund's operations and the potential distributions to Unitholders. Unitholders shall consult their own tax advisors in respect of holding Units in the Fund and any resulting tax risks.

Tax Risks

Investment in the Fund involves various tax risks which are not clearly known at present. The Fund's exposure to tax payments results in reducing the cash available for the Fund's operations and the potential distributions to investors. Taxes incurred by investors will reduce the returns associated with investment in the Fund. Potential investors should consult their tax advisors about the taxes to be incurred in respect of investing, holding, and selling Units.

Risks of Value Added Tax (VAT)

As at the date of issue of these Terms and Conditions, investment in the Fund is not subject to any income tax, withholding tax, capital gains tax or any other related tax, however, the government approved the application of the Value Added Tax in the Kingdom by January 2018. The Value Added Tax may be applied on initial or future properties to be acquired by the Fund, which may increase the value of the properties, and thus adversely affect the revenues of the Fund.

In accordance of the Value Added Tax Regulations recently issued in the Kingdom, investment in the Fund is not expected to be subject to the Value Added Tax, however, investors should seek advice on the impact of the Value Added Tax in respect of their investment in the Fund.

The Fund Manager is expected to be subject to the Value Added Tax in respect of its own activities and business. As a result, payments due and payable to the Fund Manager are amended so that they take the Value Added Tax in consideration. Therefore, it is not evident what is the impact of the Value Added Tax on the Fund and returns to Unitholders.

Risks of Government and Municipal Approvals

The Fund may fail to achieve its investment objectives in case any required municipal approval or consent is denied or is granted under unacceptable terms. In such case, the Fund may not be able to complete an investment or the development of a real estate property, which may negatively affect the value of Units, since the expected returns on development were not earned on time.

Saudization Risks

The Saudi Arabian government requires the employment of a high percentage of citizens of Saudi Arabia in the development of the Kingdom's real estate sector (Saudization). It is unclear at this point to what extent the Fund and its investments will be required to implement the Saudization policies. Saudization may require the hiring of additional employees or the provision of additional training. These additional costs may result in operating costs higher than originally expected. They are deducted out of the Fund's net income, hence reducing the net profit available for distribution to Unitholders.

Risks of Third Party Litigation

The activities of the Fund's assets expose the Fund to the risks of becoming involved in legal proceedings with third parties. In such case, the costs of defending against any claims filed by third parties and any amounts related to settlements or judgments, shall be incurred by the Fund, which would reduce the Fund's assets and distributions to Unitholders.

Risks of Liability and Indemnification Limitation

The Terms and Conditions of the Fund limit the circumstances under which the Fund Manager, its shareholders, directors, managers, officers, employees, agents and subsidiaries, and the Fund Board, can be held liable to the Fund and Unitholders. As a result, the Unitholders' right of recourse against the Fund Manager and their right to take action against it in certain cases is limited, as compared to cases where such requirements are not provided for. In addition, the Fund may be responsible for indemnification in respect of certain claims, losses, damages and expenses pertaining to the Fund Manager, the Custodian, developers, property managers, their respective directors, managers, officers, employees, agents and subsidiaries, and the members of the Shari'a Board and Fund Board, for some claims, losses, damages and expenses arising out of their actions on behalf of the Fund, provided the person who made the action has acted in good faith and in a manner believed to optimally serve the interest of the Fund, and provided such action does not entail a gross negligence, fraud or willful misconduct. Such indemnification obligations could materially impact the returns to Unitholders.

Sovereign and Political Risks

The value and investments of the Fund may be negatively affected by the political and diplomatic developments, social instability, changes in government policies and other political and economic developments, which would adversely affect the Unit trading price or returns on investments.

Risks of In-kind Distributions

Subject to compliance with regulatory requirements, the Fund may make in-kind distributions in the form of real estate property or shares in other companies upon the winding up of the Fund. In the event of distribution of in-kind dividends, Unitholders may receive shares in a company or real estate property that are difficult to be disposed of and realized. The distribution of in-kind dividends in the form of assets may create administrative costs and burdens which investors would not have incurred if the Fund distributed cash dividends.

Forward-Looking Statements

- a) These Terms and Conditions may contain forward-looking statements relating to future events or the Fund's future performance or expected assets. In some cases, forward-looking statements can be identified by terminology such as "anticipate," "believe," "continue," "estimate," "expect," "intend," "may," "plans," "projects," "should," "will," the negative of such terms or other comparable terminology. These statements are only predictions. Actual events or results may differ materially. In evaluating these statements, prospective investors shall specifically consider various factors, including the risks outlined in Paragraph (D) of these Terms and Conditions. These factors may cause the actual events or results to differ materially from any forward-looking statements contained herein. The foregoing does not purport to be a complete or exhaustive explanation and summary of all the risk factors involved in an investment in the Fund Units. Therefore, we strongly recommend all prospective investors to seek independent advice from their own professional advisors.

The foregoing risks are not considered to be a complete or exhaustive explanation and summary of all the risk factors involved in an investment in the Fund Units. It is strongly recommended that all prospective investors seek independent advice from their own professional advisors.

- b) An investment in the Fund does not entail any guarantee that such investment will be profitable or that an investor will not incur any loss. As such, each prospective investor shall take into account each of the aforementioned risk factors prior to purchasing Units in the Fund. Investors shall solely bear the full responsibility for any financial loss resulting from an investment in the Fund unless such loss is due to a fraud, gross negligence, or willful misconduct of the Fund Manager, in accordance with the Real Estate Investment Funds Regulations.

The Fund's total asset value is the total value of all real estate assets, cash, profits, receivables, the market value of all non-real estate investments, and the present value of any other Fund owned assets. The Fund Manager shall exercise reasonable care in determining the values of the Fund assets and requirements, provided that Fund Manager acts in good faith in the best interest of the Fund and Unitholders.
